A TRUE HELPMATE.

Congressman's Wife's Scheme to Gain Popularity.

Great successes often depend upon small considerations, and the wife of a member of congress, a statesman to whom his constituents are wont to point us a man of the people whom flattery cannot divert from his old custom and associations, fully realizes this fact, says the Washington Star. A school friend who had not seen her since girlhood surprised and delighted her with a visit not long since.

"How industrious you are!" exclaimed the visitor.

"In what way?"

"I don't know. I suppose it is fancy work. I know that you used to have a great aversion to plain sewing. But you must be very diligent indeed to have your work basket in this room."

"Would you like to know what I am at work on?"

"Certainly."

"You shall see for yourself. Here it is." And she held up to view a half-knit sock of old-fashioned blue yarn.

"You—you don't mean to say that your husband wears things like that?"

"Oh, no. He wouldn't think of wearing them. I have a whole lot that I will give away to anybody who will use them."

"Do you do this for pleasure?"

"No. It isn't at all for pleasure. It's business, and I never occupy myself in that way except when it is absolutely necessary. But I always keep the work handy, and whenever one of the old-fashioned, rural voters of my husband's district comes to make him a call—and you have no idea how many honor us with that attention!—I get it out and knit away for dear life. It is a good deal of bother, but it's worth it, for you really can't imagine how it pleases them!"

GETTING REVENGE.

A Little Girl's Recklessness Toward an Aching Molar.

It is claimed that this story originated in Cleveland, a claim which may very well be true, because Cleveland—and especially the east end—has more precocious children to the acre than Boston could boast of in her palmy days, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. This particular precocious infant lives on a pretty cross street in that favored locality. Not long ago she was troubled with an annoying and persistent toothache. Finally her mamma took her to a dentist and the dentist interviewed the troublesome tooth. After examining it he told her that the best thing to do under the circumstances was to have the tooth extracted, as it contained a very large cavity and this was the seat of the trouble. Bracing herself firmly in the chair she bade him go ahead and remove the acher. After the operation was over she carefully wrapped the tooth in paper and declared she would take it home.

Next day her mamma noticed that she was an unusually good girl, and, upon looking around, located her in a window seat industriously poking sugar into the cavity of the extracted tooth. Her mother demanded the cause of this strange proceeding.

"Why," she said, "I'm pokin' sugar in the old thing just to see it ache!"

PUSHING THE PANAMA CANAL.

"The Panama canal project is being pushed with considerable energy, and it looks as though there were good reasons for the faith of the men who have charge of it that the work will be carried to completion," said Victor Vifquain, United States general manager at Panama, recently. "There are about 3,000 laborers employed on it, the majority of whom are Jamaican negroes. On the Pacific side a splendid wharf is being constructed at a cost of $1,000,000. About one-fourth of the canal is completed, and it has been demonstrated that the entire work can be finished at a very reasonable expenditure. The company, it is said, has funds enough to continue work for two years more. My own belief is that its ultimate completion is a certainty!"—Detroit Free Press.

Mosquitoes in Hartford.

Hartford also has a plague of ferocious mosquitoes. They have stopped baseball games, and street car conductors and motormen travel with heads swathed in handkerchiefs. The visitation, which follows very heavy rains through July, is the worst of the kind ever known in the city.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

GOLDBUG LIES ABOUT THE SILVER DOLLAR.

The Washington Post, published almost in the shadow of the White House, is not deterred from telling the truth about the silver dollar through fear of Czar Reed or Boss Hanna. It tells such great metropolitan dailies as the New York Sun, World and Post, that they deliberately state what is not true when they say the silver dollar is worth but 40 cents. They know that the silver dollar, bearing the stamp of the United States, is worth 100 cents, and that it is a legal tender for that amount and that it will be received at that value by the Government. Says the Post.

It is very unfortunate, though in view of the closing of the world's mints to the white metal it is entirely logical and inevitable, that the bullion value of silver should decline so sharply. The uses of silver, save for money, are very limited. Like gold, silver has little intrinsic value—that is to say, it is susceptible of conversion into very few agents of practical utility. A man cast away upon an uninhabited island and finding there a ton of virgin silver would cheerfully exchange the whole treasure for a frying pan, a jack-knife, or an iron spoon. The Klondike argonauts, should they suddenly be cut off forever from intercourse with civilization, would be glad to give all their gold for an ax apiece or the means of procuring simple food. The intrinsic value of these metals is very slight. They are of no use whatever to man in a state of nature, and to organized society, outside of coinage, they stand for little more than ornament and luxury.

It follows, therefore, that in closing the mints to silver the world has divested silver of nine-tenths of its utility and value. The same result would follow a similar action with reference to gold. Neither metal would be in any serious demand or bring any considerable price if the nation should, by common consent, destroy their money attribute.

The fact about silver is that, so long as it remains excluded from the world's mints, its bullion value must depreciate, but it is not true—it is absurdly and impudently false—that the value of the stamped coin has declined, or that it can decline so long as the nation which has stamped it continues to be solvent. The silver dollar will buy just as much now as it did ten years ago. It will buy 100 cents worth. These New York newspapers, with the possible exception of the World, know that it will, and are striving only to confuse the public mind and to disseminate a lie."

GOVERNMENT REVENUES AND EXPENDITURES.

The Treasury statement issued last Wednesday gives the Government receipts and expenditures since the new tariff bill went into effect. The receipts for August were: Customs, $6,987,702; internal revenue, $11,193,205; miscellaneous, $762,308; total, $18,919,205. The expenditures for August were $33,265,000, leaving a deficit for the month of $14,331,734, or at the rate of $172,221,528 per annum. The receipts and expenditures for August were less than usual, but the expenditures for July and August were $38,865,908, against receipts of $57,970,570, leaving a deficit of $25,425,338 for the two months, or at the rate of $152,452,028 a year.

The small receipts at the custom houses in August are attributed to the large importations before the passage of the Dingley bill. The increase in tariff schedules was anticipated by importers and heavy orders were given to be filled before the new tariff went into effect. When the McKinley act went into effect there was a falling off in the revenue from duties on imports. Then we were told that the falling off was due to the belief that duties would be reduced. Now the falling off in the revenue from duties is attributed to large importations in anticipation of increased duties. There is always some excuse, but somehow the trusts, not the Government, profit by the change.

TIME TO STOP SUCH IDIOTY.

Benjamin Kurtz, a newly entered freshman at Berkeley, was so seriously injured in a rush between classes on Monday as to disfigure him for life. His face had been stamped until his jaw was broken, nose torn, teeth knocked out, and it was feared he had suffered an injury to the brain. Two other students came out of the combat each with a broken leg.

It is about time that a halt should be called in this idiotic hamburghery. It may all be in line with college customs and progressive education, but if the boys must have fun or violent exercise, in the words of old Lem Allen, late Speaker of the Assembly, "let them git out and saw wood." The injury of one boy for life, forcing him to go through the world disfigured or crippled knocks the substance out of any college professor's argument in favor of any of these ridiculous customs.

A State should be required to pay damages where a boy is injured under such circumstances at one of its institutions, with as much reason as a town or city is held responsible for injuries and damages caused by a mob.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The First National Bank at Greenburg, Indiana, failed yesterday. Examiner Packard has been instructed to take charge.

Frank A. Novak, the Welford murderer brought back from the Klondike, has been turned over to the officers of Benton county, Iowa.

The steamer Eugene has been seized at Union, B. C. She was bound up the Yukon and is charged with an infraction of the custom laws.

An asylum for the insane in course of construction at Montreux, near Geneva, Switzerland, collapsed burying a number of workmen and seriously injuring others.

R. K. Davis, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, stated at St. Paul yesterday that in his opinion the Hawaiian treaty will be ratified when taken up by the Senate.

A reunion of the survivors of the Twenty-third Regiment, Ohio Volunteers, was held at Fremont, Ohio, yesterday. President McKinley, who was a member of the regiment, was present.

The sentencing of Plyler, the convicted Santa Cruz fiend, was postponed yesterday. The trial of Schodde, his associate, is in progress. It is probable that both will be sentenced next Tuesday.

The tri-party deadlock at Lincoln, Nebraska, was broken yesterday by the free silver Republicans agreeing upon J. J. Sullivan, a Democrat for Supreme Judge. The Populists then accepted Sullivan.

Richard Savage, father of the novelist, was thrown from a buggy at St. Helena, Cal., Wednesday and seriously injured. He is eighty years of age and fears are entertained as to the ultimate result.

Harvey Allender, the San Jose murderer that was to be hanged to-day, will probably be reprieved through a stay of execution, brought about by his attorney giving notice of an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

About 100 Populists met in State convention at Salida, Colorado, yesterday. Judge Gabbert was nominated for the Supreme Bench. The platform demands the free coinage of silver and a sufficient volume of paper currency and denounces "government by injunction."

The New York vestibule train on the Delaware & Lackawana road, jumped the track at Blodgett's Mills yesterday and plunged through the station building. The engine, baggage car and two coaches went entirely through the building. Mrs. J. H. McQuillan of Philadelphia was killed and seventeen passengers injured.

Coal miners and mine operators held a meeting at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday with closed doors. The miners decline to consider any proposition to open the mines at the 64 cent rate, while the operators have great confidence that an agreement on the rate will be reached after certain concessions are made to the miners. A National Miners' Convention is one of the probabilities of the near future to ratify or reject the agreement arrived at by the executive committees of the miners and mine operators.

The situation at Pittsburgh is quiet. Orders are coming in for coal and the miners take this sign as a good omen for an early settlement of the strike and believe it will be made on the 60 cent basis.

At Hazleton, Pa., mob law prevails and 2,000 men are marching to Silver Brook. They stopped every colliery in the district and attacked Superintendent Jones' residence, smashing the doors and windows. Mr. Jones is in prison. It is reported that a sheriff and a posse will arrive and it is feared that trouble will ensue.

Considerable complaint was made last evening at the demonstration at the V. & T. depot on the arrival of the train. The officers have determined to correct this annoyance and a word to the wise is sufficient. Let the young men who were there last night take the hint.

A new daily paper called the Argonaut has materialized at Elko. It is probably another case of some fellow being out of a job and unable to get anything to do, and his last resort before taking to the road is to start a newspaper. He has the JOURNAL's sympathy.

The News says that it is rumored that the farmers of Carson Valley are talking of establishing a co-operative hay and grain yard in Carson, under their own management. They believe that they will make more money by this means and say that other co-operative undertakings are working nicely.

The Virginia Chronicle reports five-dollar pieces scarce on the Comstock. They have been scarce in Reno for so long that they have become a curiosity and many people have forgotten how they look. The only class of money that seems to be plentiful hereabouts and should be demonetized is "jawbone."

Read Wm. Pinniger's new ad. in today's issue. He is an "up to date" pharmacist and his long residence in the town of Reno entitles him to especial consideration. All of his goods are pure and fresh and a prescription filled at his store may be depended upon. Remember he has all kinds of perfumes and toilet articles.

The intimation of the Reno papers that the Carson cyclers had a bad attack of Klondike feet has put the boys on their metal and last evening they commenced training with a will. It is said that they will keep in the harness now and that those Riverside fellows will soon hear from them, although it was not the original intention of the local riders to do any racing this year. —Carson News.

THROUGH MOHAWK.

The Site for a New Town Selected.

Leaving the McLean home, a drive of about a mile brings the visitor to the splendid farms and dairies of H. Nesan, an old settler in Mohawk Valley, and his son F. J. Nesan. The respective farms and buildings are situated opposite each other on the main travelled road and show thrift and careful management. Hay is the principal product of the farms, while a good sized creamery is maintained and large quantities of butter is put up for shipment. Near the Nesan farms, is located the little "Red School House" where the children of the valley receive the first principles of their education.

A half mile more and the King place is reached. This is also a model farm and dairy and is carried on by Mrs. King, a good old fashioned German lady, who gives a hearty welcome to the visitor. She is assisted by her cousin, H. Thielbar, who is also a partner in the general business connected with the farm and dairy.

Mrs. King is an excellent manager and every detail about the place comes under her personal supervision. The creamery is the main feature and the skimming room, churn room, cellar and tub manufactory, with a view to practical convenience, shows careful planning and thorough completion of the plant. The motive power for the immense churn is furnished by a large water wheel. A stream of cold mountain water rushes through a flume that is set just below the floor of the churn room. Every inch of the wood-work in this room is scoured and polished until it looks as if coated with enamel.

A summer kitchen near at hand fitted with a large range and boiler and other conveniences to heat water for scalding and washing the pans, buckets and other utensils about the dairy, is not only a surprise to the visitor as he sees the water dashing through it, but when the various appurtenances, such as tubs, dry racks and a dozen other appliances are shown and their usefulness explained, he cannot but wonder how they were all thought of. A step and the shop is found where the butter tubs, of various sizes, are made by a son of Mrs. King. He is a cripple unable even to stand on his feet, yet he manages to turn out a large amount of work. His bench, tools and everything connected with his department is so arranged that he can work sitting in a chair, moving the latter back and forth as occasion requires. He orders his lumber and makes his own staves, and has the reputation of making the best butter tubs of any one in the valley and there are several engaged in the business.

Mrs. King and Mr. Thielbar will put up 300 tons of fine hay this season on their farm, besides a great quantity of butter already stored in the cellar and yet to be made.

Mrs. King has been post-mistress of the Mohawk Valley post-office for 25 years and she conducts the office in a systematic and satisfactory manner to the Government as well as the people of the valley, as her long service fully demonstrates. She is well to do in a financial way and while a close calculator in business, she is charitable and kind to her neighbors less fortunate.

Leaving Mrs. King's place and driving toward the foot of the valley a number of small farms are passed and while not as pretentious as those already mentioned, they show thrift and marked degree of quiet comfort.

In the midst of a heavy growth of timber and within a mile of the foot of the valley, the railroad company, through the efforts of Superintendent Engle has secured a quarter section of land for a town site. It is a beautiful spot. A slight elevation affords opportunities for excellent drainage and the character of the ground, gravel and coarse sand, will furnish dry walks and streets. A large stream of water flows across the quarter section at its highest point and the right to this stream has been secured by the company. Mr. Engle in his plans for laying out the town site has decided to have a small ditch conveying this water through each street in the proposed town. As a further water supply for domestic purposes Gold Lake, which is distant some eight miles in the mountains, will be tapped. The project is one which can be easily accomplished and the town will be furnished with a splendid supply of ice cold water at most any pressure desired. The rail-road is within seven miles of the point selected for the town and the survey of the route has been made and a comparatively easy grade into the valley established. The road will probably be extended into the valley next season. The new town will be carefully platted and when the road reaches it and buildings are erected it will be the distributing point for the Plumas Eureka mines, Johnstown and several adjacent valleys also Quincy for the time being. In addition to the dairy and agricultural interest of Mohawk and other valleys, the great quantity of fine timber furnish material for the manufacture of butter tubs which is no small business. The writer was shown an order covering 5,000 tubs to be shipped out this season. Several men are engaged in this business alone.

Now we have arrived at the Quincy stage road and the ascent to Claryville is commenced. It is a long heavy climb, but over a good mountain grade, that every now and then through a break in the timber gives one a splendid view of the valley and surrounding country. Finally the summit is reached and an open space in the trees allows a last look at the peaceful Mohawk Valley with its substantial homes, far-reaching and rich meadow lands,

THE ASYLUM.

It Was Never in a Better Condition.

Last week the editor of the Appeal being in Reno paid the Hospital for Mental Diseases a visit, and spent a couple of hours there. The institution is always open to the inspection of anyone and in view of the controversies over the management in the newspapers, the writer made a pretty general inspection of the place, visiting every portion of it. He has visited the place several times before in the past few years and can say that he never saw it in cleaner, or better kept condition than it is at present.

Dr. Bergstein has reduced everything there to a thorough system and has reached the conclusion that the best of everything is the cheapest, in the long run and it is safe to say that the State has saved money by it. The new furnaces and boilers now being put in will do twice the service for one-third less cost than the old ones and everything about the place shows care and constant attention. The grounds are beautifully laid out and kept—and the trees and lawns give a cheerful aspect to the place which cannot fail to be beneficial to the patients.

A female washer remains in the female wards all night, occupying a post formerly filled by a male. The good sense of this change is obvious. Any one who will visit the Asylum will be impressed with the fact that it is a thoroughly well managed institution, and that no part of the work is neglected. —Carson Appeal.

Indiana Destroying Fish.

It is reported on good authority that the Indians have been slaughtering fish in Prosser Creek lately, most outrageously. The water in the creek is low and they put in traps and then go up the stream and drive down every fish along the way, and catch them in their traps. Such destruction of the fish should not be allowed. Indians have no more privileges in taking game and fish than other persons. It is thought by some that they are privileged to kill game and fish at any season of the year, but it is not the case. Indians on reservations, who maintain tribal relations have the right to govern themselves, but when they live among the whites they are subject to our laws the same as any foreigner and under the same restraints regarding the killing of game and the taking of fish as other persons. They are all provided for on the reservation, and they should stay there or obey the laws while they are not there. —Truckee Republican.

An Extensive Business for Sale.

On account of various matters in which he is interested demanding so much of his attention, R. H. Cowles finds that he cannot devote the proper amount of time to his Grocery Business at Wadsworth and hereby announces he will sell the building at Wadsworth in which is located his General Merchandise Store, the lot on which it stands, a large fire-proof cellar, the stock of goods on hand, the good will, etc. The goods are all fresh, nothing shop worn. The business is a prosperous one and the only reason for selling is to enable Mr. Cowles to give all of his time to other industries in which he is engaged. Wadsworth is the best business town in Nevada to-day and this opening offers a splendid opportunity for some good man to locate in Wadsworth. Call on R. H. Cowles at his store. Aug 26/67.

The Fistic Carnival Not Abandoned.

The Reno Committee which had the prospective fistic contest in hand are in receipt of a communication from Alf Ellinghouse, Brady's manager, to the effect that while immediate contests could not be arranged, or exhibitions for Fair week, it is quite probable that something can be done later on to bring about a meeting of some of the pugilistic stars. The promoters say that the scheme has not been dropped by any means and that Nevada may look forward to a carnival at an early day. The date of the coming fair is too early, however, to give opportunities for arrangements and training.

Accessories for Summer Costumes—Waistbands, Collars, Lapels, Etc.

Among other accessories separately are ruches of snowy tulle, with which are made neck trimmings lighter and softer and more fluffy than half bows of ostrich feathers. But they are more fragile.

The tulle of which they are composed is in all colors—black, white, silver gray, mauve, pink, claret colored. China pink and Nile green, in every case powdered with white; but the shades best suited to the complexion are white, pale gray, or black powdered with white.

There are two ways of making up these ruches; sometimes they are made with couques, fixed upon No. 12 or 22 satin ribbon to match; sometimes they are fastened together with very fine silk so as to form a sort of tuyau, through which is passed a round piping of cotton covered with drab ribbon about 40 centimeters in length; then with a silk to match the tulle the puffs are attached every one or two centimeters apart, forming rosettes of five to ten centimeters, according as the ruche is required smaller or larger. Sometimes they are made slightly deeper and brought together so as to make the ruche fuller.

Very pretty ruches are made with No. 60 moire or taffeta ribbon, ruched in the center and edged with a very small frill or a narrow ruche of black or white mousseline de soie at the edge of a black ribbon. A pretty fashion in trimming tulle grenadine or barege dresses is to make a ruche of white, pink, pale green or turquoise satin ribbon, always using black mousseline de soie for the small ruche which borders it.

Some corsage fronts in black or white mousseline de soie I have seen trimmed with insertion or spangled braid, laid on flat among the tulle or muslin, as the case may be. The same thing can be done with black lace and spangled braid, collar and waistband of some bright colored moire, which can be tied behind in a baby knot and long ends, edged with a very tiny ruche of black mousseline de soie. They are also made with ribbons.

I have seen a black tulle blouse, with coarse meshes, on which are sewn two rows of cream guipure insertion of a very pretty pattern. The upper part, trimmed with small barrettes of braid, is embroidered with black spangles and turquoise. The sleeves are of black tulle, without lining, showing the arm through. This blouse can be worn over black or any color desired. —Chicago Tribune.

A General Storm.

Heavy rain storms were reported at San Francisco, Sacramento, Susanville and Quincy last night and in Southern California. The storm seems to be general and accompanied by high wind. Indications up to midnight here pointed to rain, but at that hour the wind quieted down and the clouds broke up and drifted towards the east. It is quite probable, however, that to-night will bring a change of weather.

GOVERNOR ELLERBE of South Carolina has issued orders withdrawing the State Constabularies from every village, town and city in the State. A few Constables will be retained in country districts where there are no local officers to enforce the dispensary laws. The State Constabularies have been maintained at heavy cost and considerable friction has arisen between the State and local officers. The Governor's action in the matter will remove this and will save a cost to the State of $50,000 per year.

It Was by a White Lie, But She Won the Prize.

"Speaking of experiences," said a young matron in Brooklyn at an afternoon tea, "I can tell a queer one. When I went from New York to Virginia to teach a public school in a small crossroads town I was very religious and sincere, while, I am afraid, I was neither. I went to church, though, because everybody was expected to go. One of the regular attendants was a sort of half lawyer, half farmer, who was no more religiously inclined than I was, and we became firm friends through our mutual sense of humor. The one church was presided over by a worthy couple. By that I mean that the pastor, Rev. Mr. Carter, preached, while Rev. Mrs. Carter did evangelical work in teaching the Bible class. She had an air of omniscience that was delightful, but it irritated my farmer-friend, so one day he came to me and said:

"I'll give you a lift if you will take down Rev. Mrs. Carter."

"What can you mean? I'm not a wrestler."

"Never mind," he said, "just join our Sunday school class and take her down."

"Well, I joined the class. The lesson for the day was the account of the winning of the three men in the fiery furnace. We were treated to a long lecture by our teacher on the beauties of the triumph of faith, and as she stopped for want of breath my farmer friend, who sat behind me, gave me a nudge and said:

"Now's your time; take her down."

"I braced up and said:

"But, Mrs. Carter, haven't you heard the latest scientific teaching about that occurrence? Haven't you heard that it is now believed these three men wore complete suits of asbestos?"

"It was not likely that the good woman had ever heard of the substance, but she was not to be caught napping, so she replied:

"Why—er—yes, I think so."

"The lesson was brought to a sudden close. The next Sunday we knew that the latest teaching of science had been earnestly discussed by the pastor and his wife, for Rev. Mr. Carter proceeded to preach a sermon an hour long on the sinfulness of modern science. I got the calf!"—N. Y. Sun.

A newly-patented fishpole has a reversible butt with both ends hollowed out to receive the first joint of the rod, so it can be turned to bring the reel above or below the grip for the hand.

The combination of a dustpan and mouse-trap, recently invented, has a hinged top projecting over the pan which can be set by a spring catch and released by means of a lever on which ball is fixed.

A newly-patented roller bearing for vehicles the rollers are set at an angle in the cups and the cones can be drawn together by a wrench, thus making them capable of adjustment like ball bearings.

A new fire escape for use in hotels and large buildings is formed of a large cushioned chair with a box in the seat under the cushion containing a rope ladder to be attached to the chair and hung out of the window.

To cool beer and other liquids the barrel or reservoir from which they are to be drawn is connected with a coil of pipe running into a chamber and around a cake of ice, with the faucet at the other end of the pipe.

The Telephone on Canals.

An important development in telephone work is proposed for the connection of the five lakes and reservoirs in the Adirondacks, which feed the Erie and Black river canals. Communication with these has often consumed two or three days and required journeys on foot through miles of forest. The suggested telephone systems will put and keep each section superintendent in instant communication with each of his lock tenders, patrolomen, bank, watch and state scouts; also, with each assistant superintendent of public works, and with the main office of the department at Albany. When completed it will become a long-distance telephone system for the transaction of business relating to the canals, and solely operated for that purpose by the canal officials.

On the rapidity and promptitude with which information of leaks, breaks or other threatened disaster is communicated to the proper canal official and the repair forces concentrated for repairs, depends the magnitude of the incidental destruction.
